Edinburgh Fringe Premiere

NICOLE HARRIS: NO BRAINER

Award-winning comedian's first hour solo show is a mix of sharp jokes, expert improv, and a whole heap of personality

"A Force of Nature" (Arthur Smith)

Join the Queen of Quirky, Nicole Harris, for an hour of her most beautifully crafted jokes and stories. Or maybe she'll create the jokes on the spot based on what's happening in the room. A master of improvised humour, Nicole can weave hilarity from any situation and never fails to entertain when she does. Welcome to the world of this single girl from London. A girl with a big personality, who inherited her gift for banter from her dad, a proper old-style cabbie. Unlike most cab journeys, though, this is one ride you'll definitely want to be on board for.

Whatever happens, it will be lots of fun and at times just a little bit crazy. It's like an evening catching up with your best friend, but one with a razor-sharp wit combined with a warm personality. This is a show you need to see. Seriously, it's a No Brainer.

Nicole Harris has been a finalist in the prestigious NATYS competition and was the first woman ever to win Jewish Comedian of the Year. Previous shows at the Edinburgh Fringe include AAA at Gilded Balloon in 2019. She has also appeared on BBC Radio 4 Extra.

"Taking laughter to the next level" (Jewish Chronicle)

WHERE AND WHEN: Nicole Harris: No Brainer plays at The Hanover Tap, 112 Hanover Street, EH2 1DR, 4-28 August (not 16th) at 7.30pm
